

^{locusta}
Regina extulerat notū penetratib, ense hse sceptriferi spolia lacrimabile lai

Multaq, cū superis, & diro quæsta cubili

^{filii oedipodis naptus lau prioris mariti}
Etnati furis, & primi coniugis umbris

^{conata ē manu anili uirorū fortū opus implere}
Luctata est dextra, & pno iux pectore ferru

Intruit tandē, & uenas prūpit aniles

Uolnus, & infelix lustrat sanguine pect

Uius exili stridentē in pectore plaga

Imene collapso sup lacrimisq, comisq,

Siccabat plangens; qualis marathonde silua

Lebilis erigone cesi ppe funera patris

Quæstib, assūptis, tristē iā solucere nodv

^{laqueū quo sero gina suspenderat}
Coeperat, & fortis ramos, mortura legebat

^{inquit, se suspenderat}
Et iā lœa ducū spes elusisse duos

^{poliniceis & etheoclis}
Res amphionias, alio sceptrūq, maligna

Transulerat fortuna manu; cadmiq, tenebat

^{creonti}
Iura creon, miser heu bello, timē, illi

^{ad regem}
Pugnarunt frēs, hunc & mauortia clamant

^{dat p patria}
Semina, & in pensus patrie paulo ante menecce

^{illū}
Conciliat ppter; scandit fatale tiranni

Lebilis aonæ solū; pro, blanda potestas

Et sceptri male sua duf amor, nūquāne priox

^{hominihys creontem}
Hærebē documēta nouis, iuuat ecce nefando

Stare loco, regimq, manu tractare cruentū

^{quantū pspēra tref}
Quid melior fortuna potest, iā flectere patre

^{fortuna}
Incipit, atq, datis abolere meneccea regnis;

^{regandi}
Primū adeo seuis imbutē amorib, aule,

^{fuit}
Indiciū specimenq, sui, iube & igne supmo

de incertis cubili
mum quæsta

Marathonde mons ē attice regionis, in qua icarus occidit

co qd fuerit satorū de gente deriu

Non ad nec fati priori

Chm 29212/5