

A fragment of a papyrus scroll, showing a section of the original text. The fragment is irregularly shaped with frayed edges. It contains faint, reddish-brown markings that appear to be remnants of ancient script, but they are too faded and obscured by staining to be legible.

studii tui not. & non
...
...
...
...
...
...
...
...
...
...

et tumorem gehenne potest huius

hunc ē intellegere de quib; prout

Handwritten text in a script, likely a form of shorthand or a specific dialect, written on a piece of aged, yellowed paper. The text is arranged in several lines, with some characters appearing to be stylized or abbreviated. The paper is torn and stained, particularly along the left edge.

Handwritten text in a script, likely a form of shorthand or a specific dialect, written on a piece of aged, yellowed paper. The text is arranged in several lines, with some characters appearing to be stylized or abbreviated. The paper is torn and stained, particularly along the left edge.

rationes propter omnia haec ipse et timor dei gehenne potest in non est intelligere de quibus propter et

rationes propter omnia hanc ipse
de morbo gehenne potest in hunc e intellegere de quib; pro

e;