

and friends managed to stay with her during the last weeks, so she died at home in her familiar surroundings. I think, as you do, that her memory will last, but her friends suffer from her loss.

I am relieved to know that you have recovered from your cold; I was concerned to see how tired you were when you left Paris a month ago. I hope that your eyes will recover completely soon.

Thank you for transmitting my many to the M. de L. W. This ^{"extimities"} will remain a small problem among many others.

Ayez à mes sentiments de fidèle
amitié pour moi et pour votre femme.
J'ai été heureuse de vous revoir et j'espère que vous reviendrez examiner quelques manuscrits à la B. N.

Marie Thérèse d'Alverny