

Handwritten text in a Gothic script, oriented vertically on the right side of the page. The text is written in black ink and appears to be a list or a set of instructions. The characters are dense and characteristic of medieval manuscript writing.

A line of handwritten text in a Gothic script, located below the main vertical text on the right side. It appears to be a continuation of the list or instructions.

A block of handwritten text in a Gothic script, located in the lower-middle section of the right side. The text is more densely packed and includes some larger, possibly decorative or initial letters.

Vertical handwritten text on the far right side of the page, written in a Gothic script. It appears to be a separate list or set of notes, possibly related to the main text on the left.

Faint, illegible markings or text located in the lower-left quadrant of the page. These markings are very light and difficult to discern against the aged parchment background.