		sunt … (before borrowing: 15rb, ll. 2-3; p. 27 l. 5), and either ∴ (another trigonus) or . . at salve mi domine (well after borrowing: 15rb, l. 10; p. 27 l. 10).
6. 24r-33v	n. 40/Opusc. 2 (p. 48-67): entire text	Various suspicious activity, including a dotted line (/.) at the inside margin of the rubric (24rb, l. 7) and a long-s in the margin.	Ennodius's Libellus is incorporated in the dossier of Symmachus as a synodal decree.
7. 26vb, l. 12-13	n. 40/Opusc. 2 (p. 53 l. 32-33): accusatoribus – credendum	⊢ (‚hic', erased) at accusatoribus (26vb, l. 12; p. 53 l. 32)	Pseudo-Sixtus I, JK †31, c. 3 (p. 107 l. 29-30); Pseudo-Marcellus, JK †161, c. 11 (p. 228 l. 14-15); Pseudo-Julius, JK †196, c. 12 (p. 468 l. 28-29); Sym. Syn. V (p. 676 l. 39-40); Pseudo-John I, JK †872 (p. 695 l. 9-10); BL Add. 3.15
8. 27rb, l. 4-6	n. 40/Opusc. 2 (p. 54 l. 23–24): quascumque – sub-movemus	∟ and ⊢ (‚hic') at quascumque (27rb, l. 4; p. 54 l. 23)	Pseudo-Euticianus, JK †146, c. 9 (p. 212 l. 6-7). Pseudo-Eusebius, JK †163, c. 3 (p. 231 l. 4-7); BL 3.108. Pseudo-Eusebius is noteworthy for adducing quascumque – sub-movemus in the Pseudo-Isidorian recension of the Libellus pro synodo, interpolated with the help of Lex Visig. 2.1.13 (11) tit